A Village Design Statement for Billinge

Introduction

Billinge was founded around 550 AD by an Angle tribe, the Varini, whose leading clan, the Billingas, gave the village and its first ruling family their names. Billinge retained its Anglo Saxon name and culture throughout the subsequent invasion and settlement by the Norsemen, 700 - 800. Around 1290, the Manor of Billinge divided into four. The ancient manor houses of Billinge, Birchley, Bispham and Winstanley are still standing. Billinge remained a comparatively isolated community for centuries, until the coal boom and the rise of Wigan and St Helens as industrial centres during the Industrial Revolution.

Stone was mined in Billinge as far back as the 11th century. The manor houses, churches, schools, farm buildings, pubs and houses were all built from locally quarried stone. Until quite recently, the Main Street looked like this.

After the auction of the Winstanley Estate to meet death duties in 1951, Billinge Council allowed new housing estates to be built and many old stone buildings were abandoned, condemned or demolished. The character of the village is continuing to be eroded by new development, especially along main arterial roadways. St.Mary's School and the Council Office sites are recent examples. The extent of public concern about this issue was recently illustrated when 600 villagers wrote to oppose the re-development of the site of the George and Dragon. Consequently, Billinge History/Heritage Society, on behalf of the village, is going to prepare a Village Design Statement for Billinge, involving residents and St.Helens and Wigan Councils, to help protect the character of the village and improve the quality and appropriateness of future new development.

The Countryside Agency originally devised Village Design Statements (VDS) as a method for improving the quality of new buildings and developments and to ensure they took into account the character of the area in which they occur. Since their inception in 1996, they have proved to be of much greater value. VDS provide a framework for local people to collectively determine how their community should develop and grow and how such developments can be in keeping with the local surroundings. Village Design Statements are researched, developed, written and edited by local people within the guidelines laid down by the Countryside Agency. The VDS describes the character of a village and gives guidelines for the conservation of that character. It records what local people value about their home environment when future planning applications are being considered. A Village Design Statement sets out clear and simple guidance for the design of all development in a village, based on its character. It is an advisory document produced by the village community, not by the planning authority. It will not stop change from happening, but it can help affect how any new building fits into the village. VDS are intended to influence the operation of the statutory planning system, so that new development is in harmony with its setting and makes a positive contribution to the immediate environment.

A Village Design Statement is unlike any other planning document. It gives planning advice directly applicable to the statutory planning system and is entirely community-based.

How to get involved

The first step in developing the VDS is to circulate a questionnaire to all Billinge residents and record the results. Please complete the attached questionnaire carefully and return it to either: Billinge Library, Main Street, Billinge, or The Holts Arms Hotel, Crank Road, Billinge, or post it to BH/HS, 29 Tracks Lane, Billinge WN5 7BL. The questionnaire can also be downloaded from www.billinge-history.co.uk/vdsq and completed, printed and returned to one of the addresses above or emailed as an attachment to vdsq@billinge-history.com

A draft VDS will then be presented for discussion and comment at an open public meeting. The final version will then be compiled and presented to the two relevant Municipal Authorities so that it can be adopted as a Supplementary Planning Document for Billinge.

Please use this opportunity to have a direct input into the way any future building development in Billinge is conducted.
